Bern, July 5.

THE Affair of the Neutrality of Savoy seems to be at an End; because the Catholick Cantons are determin'd to be content with the Verbal Assurance given by the King of France, that he will not unite that Dutchy to his Crown when a Peace shall be concluded; and because the Canton of Zurich refuses to enter into vigorous Resolutions on this Affair. Add to this, that all the other Cantons are so jealous of the Superiority which ours of Berne has over them, both in Strength and Foresight into the Consequences of publick Affairs, that 'tis enough for our Canton to propose Counsels, and sollicit the putting them in Execution, to make all the rest disrelish them. Thus being blinded with Passion and Prejudice, they do not see their true Interest, nor reflect that their own Security depends on that of this Canton. This Jealousie is not the only Root of Division; the difference of Religions is another, which sours them against each other, and breaks that Band of Love and Concord, which should hold them together for their common Good.

A brief Account of the Method used in the Consecration of the New Church at Le-verpole by the Bishop of Chester.

The Bishop before he went into the Church, propos'd some Questions to the Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council, &c.

To which they returned Answer in a Schedule to the Bishop, which was recited by his Register.

Next the Bishop required them to make an Oblation to God of the Church and the Ground belonging to it, which they did in a short Form delivered to them, and recited by the Bishop's Register.

Then the Church Doors were opened, the Bishop went in, and in the Name of God took Possession of it.

The Bishop being gone to the Seat prepared for him, began with a Prayer.

Then followed the daily Morning Prayer, read by one of the Bishop's Chaplains.

After the Venite Exultemus, instead of those for the Day, were read Psalms 84, 122, 132.

Then followed a Prayer said by the Bishop. Next the Letany recited by one of his Chaplains.

In the end of the Letany, after the Collect, We humbly beseech thee, &c. Another Prayer was said by the Bishop.

Next the General Thanksgiving, the Prayer of St. Chrysostom, and the Benediction.

Then the Communion Service, the Bishop reading and saying our Father, &c.

After the Commandments, the Prayer for the Queen, and the Collect for the Day; another Collect was used by the Bishop.

The Nicene Creed.

Then the Act of Consecration was read by the Bishop.

The Sermon.

Then the Prayer for the Church Militant; then a Prayer read by the Bishop, the Benediction, &c.

Then the Bishop, Major and Aldermen, &c. went into the Church-yard to Consecrate it.

The Bishop thus Address'd the Major, Aldermen, &c. You have desired me to Consecrate this Piece of Ground for a Place of Christian Burial; I therefore now proceed to the Consecration of it.

The Bishop and the Company attending, first went round the Church-yard; that done,

The Bishop kneeled down in a convenient Place, and used a Prayer proper for the Occasion.

The 23. Chap. of Genesis, was read by one of his Chaplains.

The Act of Consecration was read by the Bishop.

After that, another Prayer was read by the Bishop.

Then the Benediction, the Grace of our Lord Jesus, &c.

The particular Prayers for the Occasion were those compos'd by Bishop Andrews on the like Occasion; with a little variation; except one Prayer compos'd on purpose for the Corporation, viz. That God would preserve their Effects from Piracies and Storms, and reward in the Success of their Trade their Zeal for his Worship.
